Audi Alteram Partem: Journal of Law, Science, and Society

Audi Alteram Partem: Journal of Law, Science, and Society is an interdisciplinary research journal dedicated to bridging the gap between legal studies, the sciences, and broader societal issues.

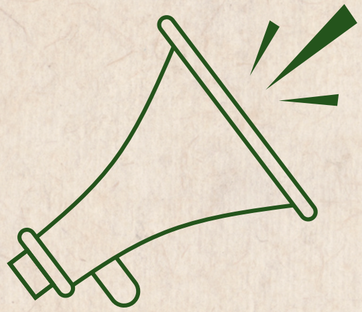

"Audi Alteram Partem," meaning "Hear the Other Side," reflects our commitment to challenge assumptions, bridge disciplines, and foster a culture of intellectual openness and inquiry.

Introduction

From Submission to Scholarship: Transforming Student Work Into Publishable Research and Commentary

- We established a structured submission and editorial process as a new student journal
- Student work requires significant revision and editorial development prior to publication
- We will discuss the submission process, identify key issues, and provide suggestions for improving student journals

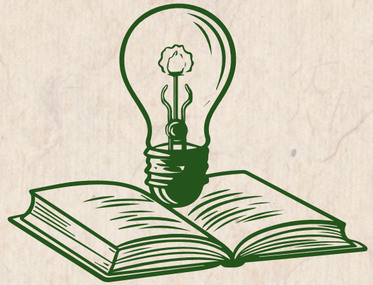

Submission to Scholarship

Call For Papers

Use social media announcements and promotions through classes and faculty to gather research paper submissions

Selection Process

Review the submissions to determine if the content fits our journal's overall message

Feedback for Revision

Provide feedback to students to make necessary edits to their papers

Final Editing

Proofread submissions for biased language, grammar issues, improper citations, etc.

Formatting for Publication

Adjust the formatting and layout of the submissions to fit the journal's style

Key Issues in Student Work

1. BIAS
2. GRAMMAR
3. DICTION & CLARITY
4. CITATIONS & APA FORMAT
5. FORMAT OF PAPERS

Addressing Key Issues

1. Change diction to maintain a neutral status and improve clarity
2. Have multiple people provide their perspective and correct grammar
3. Journal organization (fixing headings, font, etc.)
4. Double-check citations and APA formatting
5. Establish a standardized format to ensure consistent style between papers

Examples

Identifying common issues in submissions & solutions

Bias

Students used biased language against the opposing argument in their papers → Editors provided feedback and made the language more neutral while keeping the content intact

Citations (APA Format)

Students submitted citations that were not in proper APA format → Editors reviewed and corrected them for adherance

Grammar

Students submitted papers with syntax errors such as run-on sentences and missing punctuation → Editors fixed these minor mistakes without changing the content

Diction & Clarity

Some papers featured redundant or unclear titles → Editors collaborated with students to make improvements

Format of Papers

Students submitted papers with inconsistent formatting → Editors adjusted font size, style, headings, and spacing

Strategies That Improve Outcomes

1. Ensure that submissions align with journal goals despite minute errors
2. Reach out or make corrections promptly to promote quality work
3. Establish a standardized format to maintain consistency between volumes
4. Encourage feedback from your writers to improve future submission processes

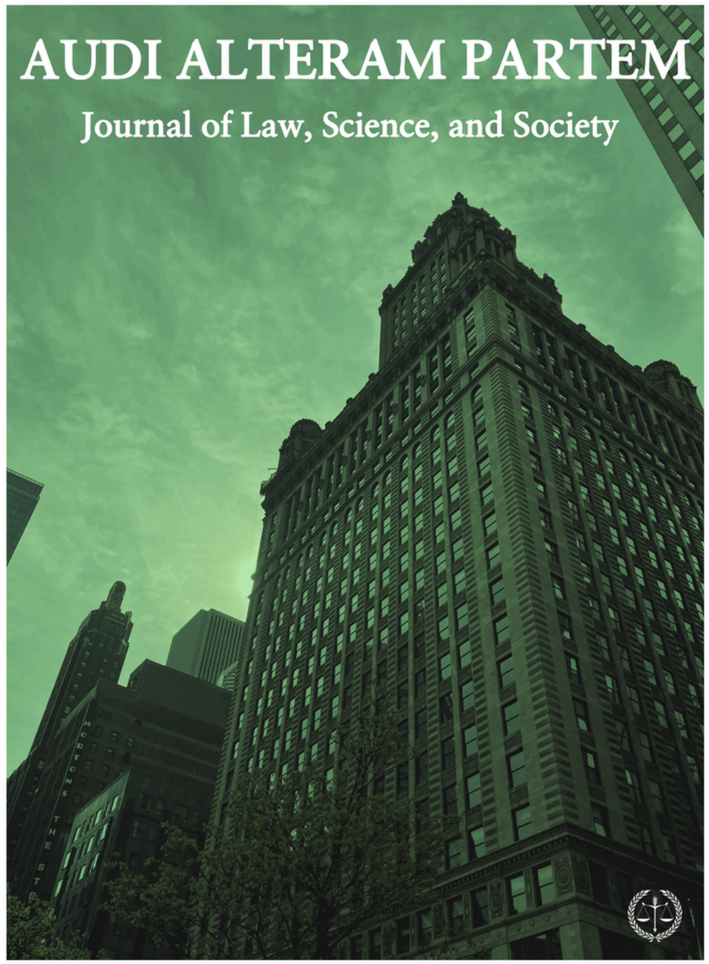

Conclusion

From Submission to Scholarship: Transforming Student Work Into Publishable Research and Commentary

- We addressed submission process, key issues, and recommendations for student journals
- Continuous improvement relies on openness to constructive feedback
